

The Governor's Office on Disability (GOOD) Continues to Serve the Public During COVID-19 Crisis

Update: Our Agency will be back in our physical offices effective Tuesday, June 2, 2020.

March 30, 2020

The Governor's Office on Disability wants you to know that we are continuing to serve people with disabilities in Alabama while ensuring that all of our activities are consistent with public health guidelines.

GOOD has temporarily closed its physical offices to the public and has put measures into place for staff to work remotely during the most severe phases of the corona virus outbreak. Our agency continues to function as a statewide clearing house for information, resources, and referrals for people with disabilities in Alabama so we encourage you to contact us. We will answer all calls and emails and respond in a timely manner.

Dr. Graham Sisson is available to (insert your text here).

We encourage you to follow the guidelines provided by the CDC to ensure safety for you and your families. Your health and safety are important to us!
